Contractors Council: Elected by and from NFSA Contractor Members in good standing from every region of the country, the Contractor's Council has purview over those affairs germane to the contracting interests of the industry, including but not limited to installation standards, building codes, legislation, and other functions consistent with the goals and objectives of NFSA.

NFSA Chapters: Contractors participate locally in groups established throughout the country. Most meet on a regular basis to share concerns and hear industry speakers. Some even host annual regional seminars similar in format to the national convention providing excellent networking opportunities.

National Committees: Contractor member representatives participate on several national committees, which include the NFSA Engineering & Standards (E & S) Committee to address technical and other issues affecting the fire sprinkler community. Much of the positive change that takes place in the sprinkler installation standards can be attributed to input from NFSA's E & S Committee.

MONTHLY DUES:

Contractor dues are paid on a monthly basis. This investment is divided into two parts: Basic Dues, based on a company's total hours worked during the previous calendar year; and an Assessment based on the total installation hours worked the previous month. Therefore, total monthly dues would equal the Basic Dues amount plus the hours worked during the previous month.

DUES STRUCTURE: 1. Basic Dues

Basic Monthly Dues	Total Hours Worked Previous Calendar Year
<input type="checkbox"/> $ 45	15,001 – 22,500
